

WITNESS ARRESTED ON WAY TO COURT

Broker Subpoenaed in the Hayes Trial Was Speeding Auto.

AGREES TO APPEAR LATER AT STATION

Depositors Give Testimony.
Exceptions Noted by the Defense.

Griffin Halstead, a local stock broker, called yesterday as a witness in the trial of Thomas G. Hayes, charged with embezzlement and alteration of records while receiving teller of the American National Bank, was called to book by Policeman Holmes, of the First precinct, while speeding his automobile to reach the City Hall in time to answer his subpoena. He appeared later at the First precinct station, was released upon his own recognizance and will appear in Police Court Friday morning.

Mr. Halstead was summoned to appear in court at 10 o'clock yesterday, and did so, but, being well down on the witness list, was excused until 11:30. Near that hour he started from his office, and, realizing that he would have to make time in order to arrive at the court house in season, ordered his chauffeur to waste no time. When within a few blocks of the City Hall, Policeman Holmes, a bicycle man of the First precinct, began pacing the stock broker. He rode up beside Halstead's machine and demanded that he stop.

Agrees to Appear.
Mr. Halstead remonstrated with the policeman, telling him that any delay might result in his being in contempt of court, and finally agreed to appear at the station house, after his business in the Hayes trial was complete. Holmes agreed to this and Mr. Halstead did as he agreed.

As soon as he reached the court room, however, Mr. Halstead asked Attorney Henry E. Davis' advice, and was told to proceed as he had agreed with the policeman. Braving the rain, which fell in torrents this morning, Mrs. Hayes came to the courthouse and took her accustomed seat beside her husband. Both the former receiving teller and his wife appeared in good spirits. The Government, at the beginning of the session, placed upon the stand several depositors whose business the prosecution claims were systematically "kited" by the man now on trial.

Depositors on Stand.
Among those who testified were: Arthur L. Cline, manager of the Auto Livery Company, whose evidence concerned a deposit of $1,000; Robert D. Hudson, a clerk of the Cranford Paving Company; George E. Walker, a local lumber merchant; George T. Keene, a tailor, and his clerk, Roscoe Willis. To the testimony offered by the Government this morning, however, Attorney Henry E. Davis, who is conducting the defense, noted many exceptions, as in most of the instances the witnesses in question on the days named only through refreshing their memory by their past books and duplicate deposit slips, and in one instance, that of the Cranford Paving Company, Clerk Hudson declared that although he had charge of the banking business of the firm, he could not recall whether he or another clerk made the deposit in question.

BAD BLOOD FLOWING AMONG DEMOCRATS

Several Near-Scraps Between Representatives
Since Row on Rules.

Bad blood is circulating on the Democratic side of the House since the recent row over the House rules, in which a faction of the Democrats split away from the leadership of Champ Clark.

Already there have been several near-fights, and any day a real collision may be expected unless the political complexion of things becomes less sanguinary. Before the row over the rules, Ben Johnson of the Fourth Kentucky district and Representative Fitzgerald, who led the revolt against Clark, used to be fast friends. But that day is past. Gossip about the Capitol is that two or three days ago Fitzgerald worked up to the Kentuckian and put his hand on his shoulder in the same old way. Johnson tried to shake it off.

Have Near-Fight.
"Take your hand off my shoulder," said Johnson. "I didn't think Johnson meant it, and didn't remove his hand."

"Afraid I'll contaminate you, Ben?" he asked. The question was asked jokingly, but Johnson didn't look on it as a joke. In wrathful, forceful and not exactly scriptural language he told the Kentuckian to remove his hand or there would be things doing. Then Fitzgerald understood that there was a party that came too near blows to be comfortable.

Another Close Call.

Ollie Jones of Kentucky, and Francis Burton Harrison also had a narrow escape from a fracas. Harrison is something of a scrapper himself. He had charged that some of the members of the Committee of Fifteen proposed to revise the rules were not the choice of their delegations. This was resented by Mr. Jones, who went to Harrison and, saying he understood he was referred to, demanded an explanation. He asked the source of Harrison's information.

"I refuse to give it," said Harrison. "If you don't do so, I'll denounce your statement as an unmitigated falsehood," said the Kentucky member. By this time the situation began to look warlike, and it was only by the intervention of friends that trouble was avoided.

In the New York delegation, among the Democrats, there is trouble, and Francis Burton Harrison nearly came to blows with Representative Sulzer and Willett when they met in the House a few days ago. Harrison resented being called disloyal and a deserter and told his colleagues so, and they in turn handed him a number of hot verbal packages.

What Congress Did

IN THE SENATE.

The Senate met at 12 o'clock and disposed of a large amount of routine business.

The resolution by Senator Rayner was adopted allowing the commissioners of the District of Columbia the use of the rotunda of the Capitol at the time of the ceremonies accompanying the removal of the body of Major L'Enfant.

A large number of memorials on the tariff from various States were presented.

Senator Gallinger introduced the new ocean mail subsidy bill.

Several hundred bills were presented and among them was the bill of Senator La Follette for the leasing of coal and other minerals on the public lands.

The Senate Finance Committee met at 2 o'clock to resume consideration of the tariff bill.

IN THE HOUSE.

The House met at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Stevens of Minnesota announced his intention of introducing an income tax bill.

General debate on the tariff bill continued. Mr. Underwood of Alabama following up the remarks of Champ Clark.

"There's a Reason"

COUNTRY IS FACING ENORMOUS DEFICIT

$120,000,000 By July 1
Is Estimate of Uncle
Sam's Accountant.

If the deficit in the United States Treasury does not reach $120,000,000 by the beginning of the next fiscal year, July 1, Uncle Sam's accounting officers will be very much to the bad in their estimating.

The prospects have caught President Taft unprepared. He placed the threatened deficit at $20,000,000 less than that figure, and thought he was far inside the lines, when he gave the condition of the national finances as a reason for calling Congress in extra session for a revision of the tariff.

The deficit today is over $80,000,000. It is increasing by leaps and bounds. The expenditures are exceeding the receipts by a daily average of over half a million dollars. This is not providing for the payment of the warrants for the many millions of dollars that the last Congress appropriated. There will be in the neighborhood of $10,000,000 to pay out within a few weeks.

Treasury officials call attention to the fact that the annual estimates sent to Congress committees last November fixed the probable deficit for the fiscal year at $11,000,000. With this startling information before it, an authority says, Congress appropriated money with a free hand.

RUSSIA ACCEPTS AUSTRIA'S DEMAND

Accedes to Annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

LAST PROP FALLS UNDER SERVA

Blow Will Be Struck If Peaceful
Assurances Are Not Given.

PARIS, March 25.—Advices from Vienna today say that Russia has formally announced to Austria her acceptance of the latter's annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The action, it is confidently believed, clears up the Balkan situation, as it robs Serbia of her only prop worth considering in the event of her going to war with Austria. There is every indication that Russia's action was as unpleasant to Russia as it is to Serbia. Austria's increasing arrogance, which has more than once balked peace just when the time seemed most propitious, has plagued Russia more than any other European power, but the latter is in no position to become involved in war, and in consequence has had to throw her influence to the Austrian side.

There is still some talk of England acting as an intermediary between Austria and Serbia, presenting the claims of the former to the latter with the recommendation that Serbia accede to every demand. A more likely development, it is now believed, will be direct negotiations between the principals, in which it is conceded Serbia could hope for scant consideration.

If Serbia delays longer than Saturday in giving assurances of her peaceful intentions to Austria, it is feared that Austria will strike a blow that may mean the annihilation of the little kingdom. Dispatches from Belgrade say that preparations for war are being pushed, and that the people are still inflamed, but this is believed to be but Serbia's final card, with no thought of actually beginning hostilities.

MAY LOSE HIS TOES; RESULT OF ACCIDENT

His left foot mashed by the weight of a heavy iron sizer, Frank P. Freeman, twenty-eight years old, of 267 Maryland avenue southwest, may lose several toes. He was taken from the freight yard at Four-and-a-half and E streets southwest, where the accident occurred, to Emergency Hospital. There it was said the injured man may suffer the amputation of the mashed toes.

SHAY INDICTED.

ALBANY, March 25.—Joseph H. Shay, the New York lawyer, who figured in the defense of T. Jenkins Hains and was afterward, on February 10, involved in allegations growing out of an attempted jail delivery at the Tombs in New York city, has been taken from the grand jury in this city for offering false evidence in a case tried in the supreme court.

DR. WILEY TO STAY IN SPITE OF FOES

Poison Squad Investigator Not to Be Removed After
All, But Will Continue Fight on Impure
Foods and Drinks.

By JAMES HAY, Jr.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, foe of green ice cream and pink lemonade, will continue to hold the position he has made famous, that of Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry in the Department of Agriculture.

This is the report today among friends of the Administration, and it puts to sleep the rumors which had been started that the doctor would be forced to resign his place. On the contrary, according to the present plans of the President, he will continue to wage war on the impurities of drinks, the adulterations of foods and the dyes of everything in general.

His Experiments Famous.

There are men and there are interests in this country imbued with a hearty dislike of this doctor who has experimented with human beings as other physicians have done with rabbits and cats. He made a record for himself in organizing "poison squads" and then making daily notes on what the "poison" did to the human systems, which had been committed to his bottles and theories by the hope of benefiting science or the offer of free board for a month or two.

But these men and interests who would like to see the doctor ousted are due for a disappointment, for from Louisiana there has come a long and well sustained cry that Wiley has not treated the sugar manufacturers fairly in his strict regulations against the use of sulphur in the refining processes used with sugar.

From some of the whisky people there have been heard condemnations of him because of his strictures on their goods.

Firm Against Benzolate.

Then there is the famous benzolate of soda case, for the doctor claims that his knowledge gained from the experimental stomachs of the members of the "poison squad" proved that benzolate of soda is a harmful mixture. He put his foot down on its use in such things as catsups and condiments on the ground that it was harmful and also that it concealed other deleterious substances in the mixtures in which it was placed.

Altogether, the doctor has made enemies, powerful foes, who have thirsted for his gore with a mighty thirst. But today he takes his stand on the broken jangling of fate, the mighty bottles of his laboratory and the magic records of the "poison squad" and laughs at those who attack him.

He is glad to hear that the Administration will not oust him. He has attained such prominence in his fight for pure science and for the benefit of every kind and description that public sentiment is for him heart and soul. He will continue his pronouncements for everything pure from the baby's milk to the aged citizen's today.

SCOTTI DECLARES HE "WON'T BUTT IN"

Baritone "As a Gentleman Couldn't Know" Anything
About Gogorza-Eames Case.

NEW YORK, March 25.—Alexander Scotti, the celebrated baritone of the Metropolitan Opera House, is to testify before Justice O'Gorman, in the court of special sessions in private, this morning, to tell whatever he may know about the alleged close friendship between Mme. Emma Eames, the prima donna, and Emilio de Gogorza, whose wife is suing him for a limited divorce. The baritone was subpoenaed by lawyers for Mrs. de Gogorza. He said last night:

"I can tell you precisely what I shall tell the judge. I know nothing of the affairs of Mrs. de Gogorza and her husband. They are both my good friends. As a gentleman I could not know. It was only a short time ago, when I dined at Mrs. Gogorza's home, that I learned from her that her husband was no longer there. It is not my affair. I do not, as you Americans say, 'butt in' on private matters. That is all I can say about this."

OLD STEAMBOAT SELLS FOR $16,500

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 25.—Ridgely P. Melvin and W. Thomas Kemp, receivers of the Annapolis and West River Steamboat Company, have closed a deal by which the steamer West River was sold to the George W. Bush Sons Company, of Wilmington, Del. The purchase price was $16,500. The West River was the most valuable asset of the defunct company, and the revenue derived from the sale will be devoted to closing out standing accounts against the company. She will now be used as a freighter between Wilmington and Philadelphia.
